SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.

[redacted] an airfield near the village of Lobecek (N 50-15, E 14-19), about 16 miles northwest of Prague. Since 1948 Svazarm (Union for Cooperation with the Army) has used the field for glider training and its hangars and workshops for the production and maintenance of gliders and aircraft for towing gliders.

2. The airfield, which is described as irregularly triangular in shape, covers an area approximately 800 x 900 meters and is bounded on the north by a narrow country road, on the east by a belt of stunted firs and pines, on the south by the same belt of trees and a road now closed to traffic, and on the west by a well-kept asphalt main road from Kralupy nad Vltavou (N 50-14, E 14-19) to Terezin (N 50-31, E 14-09).
3. The field has no runways or radio antenna. Building activity is expected to start sometime in 1955 because about 40,000 bricks and a large quantity of river sand have been delivered there. The field is guarded day and night by eight members of the paid militia, and employees of the field must present a pass with photograph upon entering. An Air Force major is in command.
